New Interpretive Panels

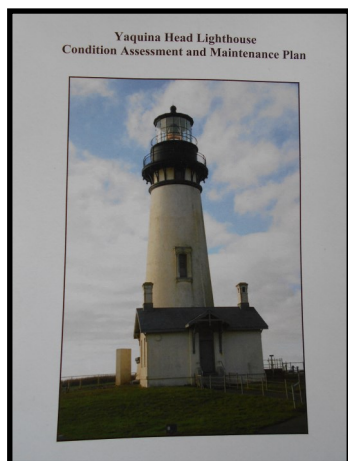

Around 35 new interpretive panels have arrived at Yaquina Head Outstanding Natural Area. The panels are currently being installed throughout the park, with the project due to be completed by mid-October. The panels are bright, modern and informative and will definitely increase public appreciation of this truly outstanding area..

A Long Awaited Project

FOYL received delivery of a long sought project this summer, when Preservation Architect Susan Licht presented BLM/FOYL with the completed Yaquina Head Lighthouse Condition Assessment and Maintenance Plan. This working document is a study of the structure of the Yaquina Head Lighthouse as well as its immediate surroundings. It contains recommendations regarding existing materials, necessary repairs and routine maintenance, all with an eye to historical accuracy.

This project was funded completely through donations made to FOYL by the visitors to Yaquina Head Outstanding Natural Area.

Thank you everyone who contributed and made this possible!

Our 16th Annual FOYL Photo Contest received over 20 entries. Entries were submitted in both electronic and print form, and FOYL is so appreciative of all of the talented photographers who participated. We are hoping to be able to put together a calendar or other document with some of the images as a fundraiser for future projects.

Watch the FOYL website for news of the winning entries, and come by the Interpretive Center to see them in person. October will likely see a shift to winter hours, photos should be available from 10 am to 4 pm daily (the above winning photo was submitted in 2014 and was taken by Adam Stunkel).

A word from Amanda, a FOYL Summer Intern

"I am a recent graduate from the University of Oregon majoring in Digital Art and Anthropology - Archaeology. At Yaquina Head Outstanding Natural Area I am a Volunteer Resource Interpreter; I give historical tours of the lighthouse, help visitors in the tide pools and the Interpretive Center, plus rove around the park talking to visitors about the lighthouse, birds, Harbor Seals and Gray Whales. I am working on a few projects for the park including, a parlor backdrop for historical dress-up photo opportunities, redoing the passport stamp and working on transcribing the Keeper's Logs. My experiences here at Yaquina Head have been some of the best in my life and I am loving my time here."
